Impaching Judge Landis
Not So Easy
Plowing Up a Chief
Typhus, Talking Sickness
By Arthur Brisbane

Two distinguished statesmen, members of Congress, are trying to impeach Judge Landis of Chicago.

Senator Dial of South Carolina, wants Landis impeached because he released without bail a nineteen-year-old bank clerk that stole almost six thousand dollars, and refunded the money.

Judge Landis said the blame rested on the bank that allowed a boy in his teens to handle millions in money and paid him only ninety dollars a month.

Senator Dial, who owns books and other things, and has for them a soft spot in his heart and pocket, accuses Landis of spreading "the most Bolshevistic doctrine I ever heard."

Senator Dial may be excited about it, but the people won't be. They will say that the baker who gave a boy ninety dollars a month and let him handle millions was at least as sane, if not a criminal.

In the House of Representatives, Mr. Waddy from Ohio wants Judge Landis impeached because he consented to act as arbitrator of baseball for forty-two thousand, five hundred dollars a year. The Attorney-General has decided that Judge Landis had a right to take the job and that settles that matter.

The public ought to pay Federal judges enough to let them live decently. But it doesn't, and nobody but Mr. Waddy would object to Judge Landis accepting any about which everybody is informed, for work that is harmless.

When the people see certain judges, 100 percent, perfect in their decision for street car, trust and other corporations, they wish that some statesman would get excited about that.

Both foolish proceedings against Judge Landis will do good, for they will stir him up to energetic plain speaking, which is his specialty.

Near Morrisville, in Tennessee, Roy Hiale, a farmer, plowed up the skeleton of an Indian chief of the Snakehead.

The chief held a pipe in his finger bones and had a dog clamped in his chest arm, his favorite dog, evidently buried with him, to help him hunt in a better world.

And the chief had in his jaw bones twenty perfect teeth, not a hole in the enamel.

In the second part of Faust you read about the emperor's law that gave to the farmer all treasure that he might turn up with his plow.

The idea was to encourage deep plowing and more fertile soil. All buried treasure below the depth of the plow belonged to the emperor.

Here, in the second century of the United States, the farmer still gets what his plow turns up, seven cent cotton, or thirty cent corn. The rest, including the profitable coal deeper down, goes to those that do no plowing and take little risk, the emperors of finance.

We smile at the Snakehead chief, holding in its arms the skeleton of a dog and clinging to the puny stone pipe. But our chiefs of today, if they were found, skeletonized later on, hold in a bundle of filthy words, or gold certificates against the breadbasket, and what would be the result? The Indian's dog would be useful in the happy hunting ground that he expected to find. But the modern chief's money would be useless in any heaven ever invented by anybody.

Three have died of typhus in New York. There are two other cases in that city and twenty-seven cases have been removed from ships to Hoffman Island.

Typhus is spread from one human body to another by vermin, body lice, and in no other way. Once it becomes widespread it is a disease against which cleanliness will not protect you, a man brushing against you in the crowded car may transfer the death-carrying vermin to your body.

The disease can be kept out with absolute certainty. Heat destroys the vermin without destroying clothing. Disinfecting baths and other treatment cleanses the bodies of passengers.

Germany has avoided any typhus epidemic with the danger constantly on her Russian border and with hundreds of thousands of Russian prisoners on her soil. The government of the United States should try to take its mind off the financial woes of Czechoslovakia and Liberia and long enough to deal with typhus and other plague menaces from Europe.

Dr. Copeland, the efficient health commissioner of New York City, long ago gave notice of the danger. It is the duty of the federal government to keep it out.

The newest disease is the talking sickness, following the sleeping sickness, which in turn, according to doctors, comes only after an epidemic of influenza.

The first case of talking sickness is that of a little girl at Waukegan, Illinois. Victims of this sickness apparently concentrate all nervous energy in the "brood" conversation, the brain centre of speech, and talk incessantly day after day.

advertising columns carefully and continuously.

So it may be well said that we in America are expert shoppers. But we are not so expert for our money—because we follow advertising. This is palpably the truth.

But that doesn't mean that we are constant seekers of price concessions. The benefits of advertising are as great in several other directions. It gives, for example, the advertiser a means of advertising and promotes high standards of quality.

So it is apparent that the woman best equipped to do the most efficient shopping for herself and her family is also the one who keeps closest watch on the printed offerings of merchants and manufacturers.

Advertising spells style, economy, abundance and opportunity. It is the road of the world into a handful of printed pages.

For one of the few retailers who have not learned of the mutual value and benefit of advertising would pay you to read this particular ad to read the rest of the advertising columns carefully and continuously.

MARY PICKFORD'S DIVORCE VOICES DEFEAT MOVIE FANS

THE ARCADE DECREE

Nevada Attorney-General Says Admissions Support Perjury Charges

RENN, Nev., Feb. 16.—The State of Nevada, in its efforts to settle the divorce of Mary Pickford and Owen Moore, will contend that the decree was fraudulently obtained.

The charge is made in a voluminous brief submitted by Attorney-General Leonard B. Fowler, who charged the court at Reno, Nev., that neither of the principals had a legal residence in Nevada.

Attorney-General Fowler claims the charges of perjury against both Mrs. Pickford and Mr. Moore were supported by admissions made in the brief filed by the attorneys of the movie stars.

Specifically the brief alleges: "A fraudulent and only judgment as between Miss Pickford and Mrs. Pickford, and Mr. Moore, and no admitted."

STATE IMPLIES PARTY

Impeaching the divorce by suit for Mrs. Pickford that the State of Nevada has no right to interfere in the case, the brief set forth: "The State is an implied party to this suit for divorce, and it is the duty of the State to protect its interests and to see that the courts do not and cannot issue a decree which is fraudulent and void."

What the relative rights of the State and the parties to the divorce are, the brief does not say. It does say, however, that the State is an implied party to the suit, and that it is the duty of the State to protect its interests and to see that the courts do not and cannot issue a decree which is fraudulent and void.

STARS CHALLENGE

Attorney-General Fowler offers a challenge to counsel for Miss Pickford. He contends, in which he states: "The State is an implied party to the suit, and it is the duty of the State to protect its interests and to see that the courts do not and cannot issue a decree which is fraudulent and void."

He also claims that because the litigants in the case involved may be affected in some particular way by the outcome of the suit, the State is an implied party to the suit, and it is the duty of the State to protect its interests and to see that the courts do not and cannot issue a decree which is fraudulent and void.

STATE PIER HERE INDUSED SAYS PETITION

Warehouse Men Say Commonwealth Storage Lease Hurts $40,000,000 Business

Use of the Commonwealth pier by the Atlantic Warehouse Company "at absurdly low rates" in meaning the business, Boston warehousemen, with property worth approximately $40,000,000, according to charges made this afternoon at a hearing before the Legislative Committee on Harbors and Public Lands.

Mr. C. C. Cole, head of the Department of Public Works was blamed by witnesses for the state's policy.

The hearing was upon the petition of the Atlantic Warehouse Company, filed by R. B. Codman, treasurer of the company, to prevent the use of the pier for other purposes for more than thirty days.

Daniel J. Killey, counsel for the petitioner, charged that the Atlantic Warehouse Company, "an irresponsible concern," has been unduly favored by the commissioner, having been allowed the use of the 160,000 square feet of the pier for 5 cents a square foot for the occupied space.

Killey declared this rate "50 to 75 per cent below the private warehouse rate," and insisted it prevented the private warehousemen from obtaining business.

"Shipping," which should come to Boston from New York, because of the competition in this city in last week's cases, up with dead storage," he asserted.

John L. Nichols, proprietor of the Merchants' Warehouse Company, George B. Lovell, manager of the Quibbey Marine Storage Warehouse Company, and C. C. Frear, treasurer of the company, also pleaded for the bill.

WITNESSES IN SPRINGFIELD 'RAZOR TRIAL' SAY WOUNDS WERE CAUSED BY FINGER NAILS

Springfield, Feb. 16.—Two witnesses testifying today in the trial of Mrs. Grace Burt Smith for assault with intent to kill her mother-in-law, said that the wounds on the shoulders of the elder woman, Mrs. Pauline Smith, were caused by her finger nails.

The witnesses were Dr. George H. Corcoran, West Springfield, and Miss Helen Rogers, a nurse. Dr. Corcoran admitted under cross-examination that at the police court hearing he had testified that he had not seen such marks. The nurse, also, under cross-examination, said she had not seen such marks on her chest.

Judge Callahan today warned the jury to discuss the matter with care. He told the jurors who are permitted to go home each night if any one attempted to talk with them about the trial, to notify the court immediately.

A special watch for pickpockets was kept on the crowd attempting to enter the court room, following complaints received by Sheriff George Clark, of a number of robberies from the gallery.

Dr. Corcoran testified he was called to attend Mrs. Pauline Smith, who was described other wounds which he said were caused by her finger nails. He said that Mrs. Corcoran found one being a cut five and a quarter inch long, and another one two and a half inch long.

He said the injuries were made up and out of the crowd. There were several other cuts, he said, including one two and a half inch long, and another one two and a half inch long.

BILL TO STOP STRIKES OF LICENSED WORKMEN

Representatives of organized labor appeared before the Committee on Labor and Industries today in opposition to a bill to prevent licensed workmen from going on strike, declaring it would deprive a citizen of his rights. Former Representative Chandler, on behalf of the American Labor Club, said that a few licensed workers, such as engineers, firemen, operators of hoisting machinery, or passenger elevators, had it within their power to go on strike and the up plants employing many thousands of other workers.

CHURCH RECTOR LAYS POSTAL SERVICE

Responds to Superintendent Cullis' Request for Criticism of System

Tribe to the efficiency of the postal authorities was paid in a letter received today by Superintendent Cullis of the Boston postal district from the Rev. Ralph M. Harper, rector of the Episcopal Church at Winthrop.

The letter was in response to a circular letter recently sent out from Superintendent Cullis' office asking for suggestions and criticisms from persons who use the mails to a considerable extent.

Rev. Mr. Harper's letter follows: "I have as rector of the Episcopal Church at Winthrop had occasion for the past six years to mail perhaps an average of 100 letters a week, and have never found one to be lost. I am frankly amazed at such a result, as I think of many that were mailed recently or wrongly addressed."

"Last Winter, at a time when all commercial houses and even physicians were unable to get out, the mail carriers visited their patches of mail practically every day, and have never found one to be lost. I am frankly amazed at such a result, as I think of many that were mailed recently or wrongly addressed."

"Mr. Superintendent, if for a moment, you will imagine yourself to be these men, I wish to thank you for such efficient service which you have rendered me, and to the members of my parish."

HEALTH PRACTICE BILL IS OPPOSED BY MANY

"Several months ago the ground on which many persons spoke before the Health Committee in opposition to the bill for the prohibition of the public agent's illegal or unprofessional practice to the Board of Registration, and to require all applicants for registration to be American citizens. A. W. Hunt, for the New England Drug Manufacturers' Association, summed the matter up as being too broad in scope, and Miss E. T. Jones objected as a manufacturer of a remedy prepared from herbs."

While Mrs. Louis N. Drysdale and two children slept in a room in their home at No. 35 Palmetto street, Malden, burglars ransacked rooms all around them, tore up carpets and moved furniture in their search for loot, and escaped with $250 in Liberty bonds and various jewelry and silverware.

Louis N. Drysdale, the woman's husband, believes from the soundness with which she slept that some drug was administered by the house breakers.

Drysdale is a navy yard employee, and worked last night, returning early today. His family was still asleep. Mrs. Drysdale was awakened with difficulty.

HARRIMAN SAYS WATER POWER MERGER IS NEAR

Tells Legislative Committee of Plans for Big New England Project

Harriman said that his company will submit shortly with the Rhode Island Power Company and with the Connecticut River Power Company, which has big holdings in New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts. The New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts companies will be combined at once, he said, and the Rhode Island organization will be taken in time to conform more nearly to the laws of Rhode Island.

The announcement was made during the course of Harriman's advocacy of a bill to permit gas, electric and hydro-electric companies to issue bonds to double the amount of outstanding stock.

Business is on the Upturn

BUSINESS in America is getting its stride again. It is going to set a steady pace it can keep. Swing along with it, the best is yet to come.

Recent months have marked a return to normal habits and wholesome standards. Business houses are in training to conserve strength and build up vital powers on a better, broader basis.

Prices have reached or are reaching stable levels.

Goods and services no longer sell themselves. They must be sold.

Good salesmanship is the order of the day. It is a help-the-buyer kind. It puts Service on a par with Profit. Its aim is to attract buyers by making buying attractive.

Merchants and all sellers are not merely GETTING business. They are BUILDING it on foundations of integrity.

Just recently the president of a national business spent thousands of dollars to apologize to the public for misstatements in advertising published in hundreds of newspapers by his company.

He said policies of truth-telling and fair-treatment must be maintained by his company at any cost because he valued the confidence of the public and the good will of his business too much to have it impaired by wrong practices.

Legitimate business believes in "playing fair" and "dealing square." It aims to safeguard the interests of the purchaser in all transactions.

With the spirit of Service as a guiding force, business is worthy of your faith on which its activity relies. There is the nub of the whole matter.

American security lies not only in our mines, forests, factories, and farms but also in the work of our hands and the confidence in our hearts.

Let us turn these to constructive purposes and enjoy a wholesome measure of Prosperity.

ASK COMMISSION TO REDUCE AUTO DEATHS

Special Board Urged to Aid in Prosecuting Offenders of Motor Laws

A special State Commission to safeguard the public against auto deaths was urged by three citizens in a hearing at the State House before the Highway and Motor Vehicle Committee. Arthur Burdham of No. 212 Rawson road, Brookline; Miss Theo Goodrich and Greenville B. MacFarland were the petitioners. They pointed out that Governor Cox in his inaugural address referred to the large number of deaths and injuries and urged preventive measures, calling attention to the fact that 119 children under sixteen were killed and 2,110 injured seriously many of them maimed for life, during the past year. Figures cited for the past three years were: 1918, 438 persons killed, 5,538 injured; 1919, 372 killed, 5,424 injured; 1920, 417 killed, 5,438 injured. The decrease in the number of deaths was due, the petitioners said, largely to the intensive safety campaign conducted by State Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin, but they called attention to the increase in the number of injuries or serious cases. They said a tribute also to the excellent work done by the police or a few communities in prosecuting offenders beyond town or city limits, whereas a State patrol force would have all in its own power.

WOMEN TO VIEW SUSPECTED ATTACKER

East Braintree Victims Will Try to Identify Mouth Prisoner

Women victims of the East Braintree "hugger" have been asked by the police of Weymouth to visit the jail of that town in an effort to identify Harry Coughlin, twenty-one years old, a former service man, arrested with three boys last night by Patrolman Phillips of the Weymouth force on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. As many points about him answer to the description given of the man who has thoroughly alarmed the women of East Braintree by his attacks, the Weymouth authorities are holding Coughlin until every one of the "hugger" victims has had an opportunity to see him. The seventh victim was Mrs. Rachel Columbe, who was attacked near her home in East Braintree. Patrolman Phillips found Coughlin in company with Francis E. Spooner.

WARNS U. S. TO CONSERVE ITS CREDIT

Gov. Harding of Federal Reserve Board Sends Annual Report to Congress

Washington, Feb. 15.—Congress today was warned that the government's credit must be conserved, and the basis of American prosperity protected, if European economic pitfalls are to be avoided. The danger signal was issued by Governor W. P. M. Harding of the Federal Reserve Board. Governor Harding submitted to Congress his annual report upon the operations of the Federal Reserve. He traced the commercial reaction of the past and present, the signs due to the war had now being borne by the government. Governor Harding told Congress that although the entire world has been shaken by commercial and financial upheaval, with disturbances still pronounced in many countries, the United States was much stronger.

BOMBARDED CORK, DECLARES MISS MACSWINEY

amine your private papers for "seditious documents," proud with their bayonets your beds for "arms and ammunition," pull up the flooring of your rooms and wreck your furniture.

The more weak and helpless the victim, the more outrageous and heinous the bullying.

Even in the countryside and smaller villages our people cannot rest in their homes at night, even in this bitter weather. No sooner do the shades of evening fall than women take their little children, wrapped in what blankets they can get, and go out to sleep in the holes and caves on the hillides or in the open fields, because they dare not stay in their homes at night.

So constantly are these night raids taking place, and so injured are the people to the cruelty of them, that the news of them travels only a little way, and many of the stories of terror are never heard.

One case I recall is that of a mother at Henry, who had two sons, one a crippled hunchback in his teens, and the other was "on the run" because he was a patriot to his own land. Being "on the run" meant that he could not sleep at home, or, in fact, any place on successive nights.

The soldiers visited her house looking for the soldier son, and when she opened the door to their knock, they dashed the candle from her hand and rushed upstairs. She followed them just in time to see her hunchback and crippled boy on his knees, praying before the raiders. They shot him between his upturned hands.

The instance of Denis Morgan, chairman of the urban council of Thurles, whose arrest and attendant raid gave his little boy such a shock that he died a few weeks later, while his father was in prison for no crime, is well known. There are present instances of wives so terrified by these raids that their children were born dead.

Fleeing Girl Fired on by Raiders.

There is the case of James McCarthy, a boy, in Thurles, who, when the raiders came for his older brother, answered the door and was shot dead without a word by the men, who also fired on his sister as she ran for the priest for the lad.

Then there is the boy, Michael Cleary, who was called to the door in the late night or early morning and shot through the head as his mother looked on. The men were hunting for his older brother, but that brother made no appearance.

If I were to look further through the letters I have, I could relate many more such incidents, but they are all of a kind—of homes raided, boys shot to death and older men taken, of delicate wives driven out or terrified, and young girls forced into the street with no time to dress, subjected to the gibes and insults and beatings of these soldiers, and, finally, of homes blown up and burned in the presence of the terrified families and their neighbors.

I quote from a letter from a woman friend in Cork, of the terror of the situation of this city, which has been repeated in many parts of Ireland almost every night as the soldiers of England 1/2 the torch to the houses and villages. Even as I write, I have before me a news cable of Galway on Tuesday last of farmhouses and houses in many parts of Galway, Limerick and Tipperary, while the soldiers were burning and shooting to watch the destruction of their all.

"About midnight we were going to bed," says this letter, "when Maggie called out that the whole city was burning. We went upstairs, and such a sight! The whole centre of the city was ablaze. First had been set on fire by incendiary bombs and petrol in different centres, and the flames were lapping their way in from one another."

BOMBS IN EVERY ROOM.

"A sea of flames was rising to the sky and eating away the city. It is today, exactly like Dublin in Easter week, after the English had bombarded it from their warships. They set the city going well, and then they went to the City Hall. They must have put a bomb in every room, because as the fire spread there were loud explosions. The clock was the last to go. The clock continued to strike every hour, and at last there was nothing but the clock ticking out of a sea of fire, still going steadily on. It struck steadily until 6 o'clock, and after that it rang out the quarter past it fell."

"Describe things as they are in the absolutely out of the question, because one cannot get accurate still on paper. All the people of Cork watched by their windows as we did. They saw the English soldiers, men at their organs, rolling around in the streets, and drinking, firing in all directions and dancing in a demotic way."

LIKE CANNIBALS.

"I have read tales of the cannibal islands, where, after feasting on every man, woman and child, they danced around their war fires. If there is a parallel in history, it is that, but what becomes of the equipped civilization of the centuries?" "A man who was living over one of the houses looted and burned says that he was fascinated by the behavior of the soldiers. 'Black and Tan' officers, he said, had an exquisite taste and would round his neck, and had a large mull in one hand, in which he held a revolver, and in the other he held a huge back of whiskey. He changed the mull to the other hand, he began firing in all directions and occasionally dancing around the road way in a sudden drunken reel."

"The bad such evil fact that the lookers on shuddered at sight of him, and he was an English officer and gentleman, and when the question of Cork was mentioned in the House of Commons the other English officers and gentlemen cheered."

"All this may sound exaggerated, and yet it is only a fraction of the truth. And what is the object of it all? What is England's purpose in this campaign of atrocity? Her purpose is the deliberate and after extermination of the Irish republican people and the dragging into submissive slavery of the non-republican remnant."

"It would make a desert and call it peace."

In tomorrow's Boston American Miss MacSwiney will tell of the capture of the British "Black and Tan" and other military to starve Ireland. Illustrations, the powerful weapons of

Make Your Own Gray Hair Remedy

Mrs. A. Dixon, a well-known Brooklyn trained nurse, made the following statement regarding gray hair: "I have tried every remedy, but I can be quickly turned black, brown or light brown by the use of the following remedy that you can make at home:

"Merely get a box of Orifex powder at any drug store. It costs very little and no extra to buy. Dissolve in 2 of water, add a few drops of lemon juice and comb it through the hair. Full directions for mixing and use and gold bond guarantee come in each box. One box will last you for months."

"It is safe, it does not rub off, it is not sticky or gummy, and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."—Advertisement.

SAYS WOMAN ADMITTED SIGNING BURKE LETTER
William D. Richards, a Roxbury attorney, public testified before the House committee on elections today that Miss Annie Woodward of Roxbury, when signature to a circular advocating the election of Representative Frank J. Burke and Timothy J. Brien of Ward 13 in 1918, admitted to him that she had signed it. He asked her to sign an affidavit to that effect, he said, and she told him she would not, as "she had too much trouble already." Testifying about the Richards Woodward case, Mr. Richards said that he had not decided she never allowed her name to be used for political purposes. Attorney Homer Adams, counsel for Burke and Brien, opened the case today. Numerous witnesses testified they never heard Burke say anything derogatory to Matthew W. Bullock or Andrew B. Lattimore, his opponents.

JORDAN MARSH COMPANY—The Mercantile Heart of New England

To the Best of Our Knowledge and Belief
Our Entire Stock of Merchandise Is Marked at Replacement Value and It Will Be Kept on This Basis
(In fact, hundreds of items are just now even less than replacement value)

We believe the public should buy their needs freely for the next few months under these circumstances, as nearly all manufacturers with whom we do business tell us that their prices will be no lower, and some may be higher by May or June.

Note.—Handling many hundreds of thousands of different articles as we do, it is quite possible that there may be a few lines where the manufacturer's price has been recently reduced and we have not as yet been informed of the fact. We would thank our patrons or any other persons to call the attention of either department managers or their assistants or the executive management to any such case, when, upon investigation, adjustment will immediately be made.

CHINESE "HUNGER" CARD DRIVE OPENS
Many Chinese "hunger" cards, in aid of the famine sufferers of that country, were sold today by Chinese students in the first of a series of campaigns. Actors and other prominent visitors, or holders of Boston new liberal purchases, many of them paying for more than the cost of $1 each. James P. Fall, and Two-Hung Chang of Boston University, the latter being the designer of the "hunger" cards, made a special tour, starting from Chinese Yamen Paid headquarters, No. 8 Arlington street. More than a dozen cards were taken by Manager P. W. McConner of the Hotel Touraine for the hotel, and others for sale on commission to guests. Dean H. S. Rose, manager of St. Paul Cathedral, Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann of Trinity Church, Professor Marshall L. Ferris of Boston University, Richard M. Sullivan of the National Shrewsbury Bank and General Charles H. Taylor of the Boston Globe were purchasers. At the Hotel Lenox, Eddie Cantor ordered "an annul" of the cards for himself and his three little daughters. Miss Nancy O'Brien at the Touraine, Paul Rooney at the Colby Plaza, William Courtney and Lola Fisher at the Parker House, all bought cards. Miss Fisher wearing a Chinese dress in honor of the day.

Rules of the Identity Test

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser's new Moving Picture Play Identity Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given to those two newspapers to their readers who submit the correct identification of the two pictures to the 120 pictures to be submitted to these two newspapers.

All employees of the Boston American, the Boston Sunday Advertiser and their families and all moving picture players and persons connected with the moving picture industry are absolutely barred from participation in the awards.

The test will consist of 120 pictures of famous moving picture players, to be printed two each day, in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, first picture Sunday, December 13, 1920.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which may be run by the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser will not detract anyone from entering this test.

Every participant or any of its members or family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures, but each must contain only ONE identification in each picture, and no participant will be entitled to more than one award and not more than one award shall be given to any one family.

Each and every identification must be written on a separate card, on the reverse side of the Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser, of a one or two inch square, and must bear the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each identification.

Do not send your identifications in "this form," i. e., in the form of a newspaper, but send them in a plain paper.

In case there are no complete sets of correct identifications, awards will be given to the person submitting the largest percentage of correct identifications.

In case of a tie in the awards will be made on the basis of assistance, judgment and exact accuracy in sending in, but if the tie occurs in several in one year, the last participant who sends similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their identifications before the end of the test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your identifications from day to day and at the end of the test arrange them in numerical order and send them in all together at one time.

There will not be a further in making the awards. The first identification sent in after the first closing will stand no better than the last submitted to these two newspapers.

All identifications must be delivered to the Boston American, Boston Sunday Advertiser, at No. 30 Summer street, Boston 5, Mass., either by mail or in person within the month time limit which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing identifications must be marked addressed as follows: "Identity Test Editor, No. 30 Summer street, Boston 5, Mass., P. O. Box 288," and each envelope or package must bear the name and address of the sender fully written on stamped on the upper left-hand corner.

All identifications will remain entire and unopened until the month time limit is over.

As all identifications will remain entire and unopened until the month time limit is over, the Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to refuse to consider any sets of identifications in which there is a possibility of fraud or in which there is a possibility of fraud.

Participants who desire further information should address their inquiries to the Identity Test Editor, No. 30 Summer street, Boston 5, Mass. Questions will be answered as far as possible through the columns of the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

If participants desire personal replies, they should enclose sufficient postage for such a reply, or they may show their card or card to the editor.

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to make any change in, or addition to, these conditions that they may deem necessary for fairly and properly conducting the test, and the decision of the Boston American, Boston Sunday Advertiser and the editor of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations now made or to be made.

SEEN ON THE SANDS AT PALM BEACH—It's a great life for those lucky enough to be able to stand the strain of the gaudy hotel proprietors. You can get a pretty fair bowl of soup at Palm Beach for a dollar. Here we have Mrs. Harry Bronckhorst of Boston and Mrs. Jesse Livermore of New York taking a sun bath on the beach at the famous resort. (Int.)

HITTING THE HIGH SPOTS—No place for a nervous woman. When they slide down hill at St. Moritz, Switzerland, it means traveling a mile a minute down a mountain run sometimes five miles long. The sport is one of the most thrilling on the list. Races are staged and spills often result in broken bones. This couple are rounding a curve. (U. & L.)

TROOPS CALLED IN TROLLEY STRIKE—Troy, N. Y., has witnessed some stirring scenes recently. Clashes between striking trolley men and strike-breakers have become so violent that it was necessary to call out State troops to maintain order. (Int.)

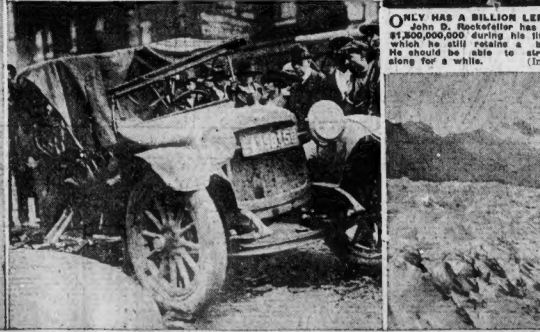

TOO FAST FOR AMERICA—Marcel Dupuy attached himself to Captain Peter B. Kyrle's outfit in France and showed away on the transport coming back. Kyrle adopted him but admits he is incorrigible. The boy will be deported. (Int.)

GEE WHILLIGANS!—That's Western for "Gee Whilligan." Everything's getting Parisian these days. This gown with bodice of tulle and rhinestones is also a bit Parisian. (c) U. & L.)

YOO-HOO, SKINNEY!—Come on over, snow ball fight. Out at Beacon, Wis., where one of the big circus winters, Charley and Doug (above) have more fun than the men they are named after. (U. & L.)

TWO DEAD AND ONE DYING—That is the result of this birthday party in which the driver of the car tried traveling sixty miles an hour on a wet wood-block pavement in Cincinnati. The machine skidded into a gutter pole and the impact was so great that two of the party were killed instantly and the driver hurtled through the windshield. (U. & L.)

WE CAN'T HAVE EVERYTHING—Rupert Hughes was right. This is Elaine Reed, one of the 18,000 girls who applied for positions as models in the big Review de Fashion which will open at the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York next week. Elaine claims to have the smallest foot in New York. Plenty of ankle though. (c) U. & L.)

CYCLE YACHTS APPEAR ONCE MORE—When the war stopped the fun at Ostend, France, cycle yacht racing on the beach was becoming a popular sport during the winter season when the beach was practically deserted. Now the sport is being revived and many new boats of ingenious design have appeared for this winter's race. The boats vary widely in design. (c) K. & H.)

ONLY HAS A BILLION LEFT!—John D. Rockefeller has made $7,800,000,000 during his life, of which he still retains a billion. He should be able to struggle along for a while. (Int.)

WEALTHIEST WOMAN—Mrs. Edward H. Harriman, widow of the railroad king, will be able to buy a new Easter bonnet. She paid income tax on $9,000,000 for the year of 1919. (Int.)
